Attorney Whitney Resumes His Argument Before the Supreme Court.

CLASS LEGISLATION.

the New Law Does Not Violate the Principle of Uniformity-Exemptions Allowed Certain Corporations. Land Values and Rentals.

Attorney General Whitney resumed his argument in sustaining the income tax law before the supreme court of the United States today. Attorney Olney, Senator Edmunds and many other distinguished counsel in the case occupied seats at the desk reserved for attorneys. The courtroom was crowded. Mr. Mc-Millin, Mr. Springer and several other members of congress who had taken part in the enactment of the tax were among those present. Mr. Whitney addressed himself to the question of uniformity in taxation, in answer to the charges that the income tax violated the principle of uniformity. Mr. Whitney reviewed prior decisions in insurance and other cases, showing that the interposition of this court on class legislation would not apply to the income tax.

Concerning the exemptions allowed to certain corporations, the assistant actorney general said it was most surprising that this was set up as a ground for invalidating the tax. He read from numerous federal tax laws, showing repeated exemptions in the cases of art societies and many other corporations.

Mr. Whitney said that the superior court had already overruled the contention that the taxation of land values and rentals, as made in the income tax, was invalid. The state taxes were against the land and not against the individual, but the income tax was not against the land, but merely against the total income of the individual. That this income came in part from land was merely an incident.

RELATIONS OF CHURCH AND STATE

Propriety of a Representative of the United States at Rome Broached. SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.-Private advices received here give an interesting and important communication from Mgr. Satolli to officials of Guatemala, concerning that country's following the course of Nicaragua in sending to Rome an envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary. In the course of the document reference is made to the propriety under the United States constitution of official relations between Washington and Rome and an interpretation given to that feature of the constitution relative to the separation of church and state. Mgr. Satolli's letter was written while negotiations were pending, about four months ago. It refers at length to difficulties in church administration in Guatemala, and suggests that certain changes desired by the government should be accompanied by an equivalent of serious advantage to render less burdensome the condition of the church in Guatemala.

Rev. Dixon Offers His Resignation. NEW YORK, March 11.-Rev. Thomas Dixon offered his resignation as pastor of the Twenty-third Street Baptist church at the morning service Sunday. WASHINGTON, March 11.—Assistant He gives as his reason that the work he especially desires to follow is to reach nonchurch-going people. He says he remains in fundamental creed a Baptist, but he purposes to place his work on a Union Evangelical platform, with vital faith in Jesus Christ alone recognized as a condition of membership.

THE UNDERSTUDY.

SUBACTORS WHO MUST BE READY TO TAKE PRINCIPALS' PLACES.

and Uncertainties They Find In study a young actress, who was an understudy in one of the principal stock companies in town, gave up her position the other day because during all that time she never got an opportunity to display her talents before the public. She was on the salary list of the company, and as wages are paid 52 weeks in the year by that particular organization it seemed rather like quitting a good thing, but it was not a question of finance with her. She is an actress of recognized ability, and understudying was not particularly suited to her taste. She had part after part in new plays and reproductions, but the principal somehow or other managed to get through without being ill, or never suffered any mishap, so it seemed as if the actress was destined to become a permanent understudy. This instance is only one of numberless similar experiences showing the trials and tribulations of understudies. All the big stock companies are well supplied in the matter of understudies, and while they are required to keep a certain number of professionals on hand they have innumerable applications from amateur aspirants for histrionic honors, who are only too willing to serve as un- Bir wird Deutsch gesprochen. derstudies on the chance that some accident will take them to the front. Most of these come from the different schools for the training of actors. The understudies receive their parts almost at the same time they are delivered to the prin-cipals. They are rehearsed regularly people with entire success. Every single Specific same time they are delivered to the prinwith the company and are presumed to a special cure for the disease named, be as well prepared for the first night of a play as the principals. Manager Charles Frohman's company is probably one of the best equipped organizations in the country in the way of understudies. Eight of these are empany the year round, and while they are probably not seen more than once or twice during a season they are always ready for any emergency that may arise. Augustin Daly's and A. M. Palmer's companies are also well supplied with understudies, and both have long lists of amateurs ready to go on at a moment's notice in case of sickness or other necessity. Every big traveling organization generally carries two understudies while on the road. Some companies dispense with their services, however, by requiring the members of the company to make themselves proficient in two or more parts. Thus if the first comedian should suddenly be incapacitated the second comedian jumps in, and so on all through the cast. The understudies who travel regularly with the company are usually a man and a woman. The former understudies all the actors, while the latter is perfect in all the feminine roles. Their salaries and expenses are on a par with those of the principals. Although many of the stars now con- Covers, for stands and dining room taspicuous in the theatrical firmament be- bles, which I sell for gan their dramatic career as understudies, it is not often nowadays that the stars themselves are understudied. 'It is generally assumed by the managers that the star is the attraction for the public, and to substitute somebody else is to practice a deception which is injurious to the show. In some instances, however, where the star has had to be replaced by an understudy, the latter has made even a better hit than the star. Billy Crane was an understudy in the cheap.
